- The Royal Ballet and The Royal Opera present seventeen new productions including six world premieres.
- The Royal Opera House celebrates 24 exciting co-productions, co-commissions and partnerships.
- Director of Opera for The Royal Opera Oliver Mears unveils new Handel and Britten productions, alongside operas designed specifically for family audiences.
- Director of The Royal Ballet Kevin O'Hare announces a Season that draws on The Royal Ballet’s rich cultural heritage while embracing dynamic and contemporary new work.
- The Royal Opera House reveals a suite of new work in Doncaster, collaborating with every school in the area. The Royal Ballet will also tour to the city in Summer 2020 for the first time in its history.
- With almost 700,000 people visiting the ROH since September, more than a quarter of a million visiting during non-performance times and almost 28,000 of those participating in free and ticketed daytime events, the Royal Opera House extends its programme of activities, events and festivals for people of all ages in 2019/20.

The Royal Opera House today launches its 2019/20 Season, unveiling an exciting range of new commissions, world premieres and much-loved revivals, supported by a diverse range of ticketed and free daytime events, activities and festivals for people of all ages.

In the first full Season since the completion of the Royal Opera House’s three-year Open Up renovation, The Royal Opera Company unveils a host of innovative new work, with 13 new productions, including two world premieres, in the Season ahead.

Building on the success of 2019’s Berenice, Director of Opera Oliver Mears brings more Handel to the Company’s repertory with Barrie Kosky’s new production of Agrippina. Handel performances continue with the Jette Parker Young Artists, who take centre-stage in a brand-new production of Susanna, performed in the West End’s newest and most intimate space, the Linbury Theatre.

The Company continues to build on the success of Billy Budd by staging two Britten masterpieces. David McVicar directs a new production of Britten’s last opera Death in Venice, and Natalie Abrahami and Michael Levine stage a new production of one of the composer’s best-loved operas, The Turn of the Screw, in the Linbury Theatre.

The Royal Opera also unveils a programme of work specifically designed for family audiences, including Antony McDonald’s new production of Gerald Barry’s wild and witty Alice’s Adventures Under Ground, and a world premiere: composer Jules Maxwell’s adaptation of Shaun Tan’s The Lost Thing, directed by Ben Wright. Staged with Candoco Dance Company, this ground-breaking new commission will feature a cast of disabled and non-disabled singers, dancers and musicians.

Building on the huge success of Olivier award winning Kát’a Kabanová, The Royal Opera stages the third opera in its Leoš Janáček cycle, Jenůfa, directed by Claus Guth with a stellar cast that includes Asmik Grigorian, who makes her Royal Opera debut in the title role, and Karita Mattila as Kostelnička.

In a co-commission between the Guildhall School of Music & Drama and The Royal Opera, composer Matt Rogers and librettist Sally O’Reilly bring the world premiere of She Described It To Death to the Linbury stage.

The Jette Parker Young Artists Programme welcomes five new singers and one stage director onto the Programme for the 2019/20 Season: their work will showcase world-class talent at its best, both in the Linbury Theatre and on the main stage.

The Royal Ballet draws on its rich cultural heritage while embracing the diverse and contemporary in its 2019/20 Season. The Company unveils five new productions, including four world premieres and co-productions. The Company will celebrate international partnerships and award-winning artists and companies from across the globe.

Alongside classics such as Manon, The Sleeping Beauty and Liam Scarlett’s critically-acclaimed production of Swan Lake, The Royal Ballet joins forces with Birmingham Royal Ballet in a Heritage programme capturing the unique history of the Company and the extraordinary choreographic creativity of Ninette de Valois, Frederick Ashton and Kenneth MacMillan. The Royal Ballet also partners with CCN Ballet de Lorraine to mark the Merce Cunningham centennial in a production of Cross Currents, which will see three dancers from The Royal Ballet join forces with dancers from Paris Opera Ballet and Royal Ballet Flanders in the first visit to Paris in 15 years. The Company is also looking forward to the long-awaited return of repertory classic Coppélia at Christmas, in its first staging by The Royal Ballet for more than a decade.

The Royal Ballet celebrates the contemporary with four world premieres, including new commissions from Liam Scarlett, Cathy Marston and Pam Tanowitz, who makes her Royal Opera House debut. Wayne McGregor presents the world premiere of The Dante Project in collaboration with Thomas Adès, Tacita Dean, Lucy Carter and Uzma Hameed.

The new Linbury Theatre provides a world-class stage for The Royal Ballet and a host of pioneering national and international artistic companies. Female choreographers lead the programme, with new work from Pam Tanowitz, Morgann Runacre-Temple and Sharon Eyal. Mlindi Kulashe makes his choreographic debut with Northern Ballet, and Carlos Acosta’s company Acosta Danza performs new, Cuban-inspired work perfectly suited to the state-of-the-art Linbury Theatre. In a co-production between The Royal Ballet, Rambert and BBC Films, Rambert also perform the world premiere of Aisha and Abhaya, a modern fairy tale with choreography by Sharon Eyal.

The Royal Opera House’s programme of free and ticketed daytime festivals, activities and events encompasses almost 200 separate events over the course of the next Season, and will include free lunchtime performances, the continuation of its popular Opera and Ballet Dots programme (for children aged three months to five years) as well as 11 Family Sundays, which welcome diverse new audiences to our art forms.

The Royal Opera House’s national learning programme, which has engaged more than 35,000 students, 531 schools and 1,255 teachers across the country so far this Season, has bold ambitions for 2019/20. The Royal Opera House will partner with Doncaster through ‘Doncaster Creates’ (Doncaster’s Culture Development programme), Cast (Doncaster’s £22m performance venue) and Doncaster Metropolitan Borough Council. Through the ROH National Learning Programme, the Royal Opera House will work with every school in Doncaster over three years, staging a mass community engagement performance in summer 2020. Alongside this, The Royal Ballet will perform in a gala in Doncaster, and the ROH’s popular Chance to Dance talent development programme will also continue.

Cinema highlights from the 19/20 Royal Opera House season include: The Royal Ballet’s Coppélia, The Sleeping Beauty and Swan Lake, and opera broadcasts featuring world-renowned opera stars such as Jonas Kaufmann (in Fidelio), Bryn Terfel (in Don Pasquale) and Nina Stemme (in Elektra). Free culture returns to communities across the country, from Aberdeen to the Isle of Wight as through our BP Big Screens we share three world class productions free of charge in 19/20. Full details and titles to be announced later this year.

Don Giovanni

The Royal Opera

Co-production with Israeli Opera, Gran Teatre del Liceu, Barcelona, and Houston Grand Opera

Music: Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart
Libretto: Lorenzo da Ponte

Sexual intrigue, jealousy, wit, anger... and retribution! The new Royal Opera Season begins with Mozart's engaging masterpiece, which follows Don Giovanni, the women he serially seduces, and the vengeance that finally catches up with him. The opera is renowned for its ever-shifting portrayals of complex characters, fast-moving action and mix of the comic and the heartfelt. A cast of international singers – both familiar and making Royal Opera debuts – under conductor Hartmut Haenchen perform the glorious arias and ensembles of this opera favourite.

Werther

The Royal Opera
Production owned by Opéra national de Paris

Music: Jules Massenet
Libretto: Édouard Blau and Paul Milliet

Generous philanthropic support from Mrs Aline Foriel-Destezet (Production Principal), Professor Paul Cartledge and Judith Portrait OBE

Juan Diego Flórez and Isabel Leonard lead the cast in Massenet’s operatic version of The Sorrows of Young Werther, the classic by Goethe that helped define the Romantic age. This is a story of obsession and passion that begins quietly, but drives relentlessly on to a shattering conclusion. The naturalistic production by Benoît Jacquot is redolent of the story’s mid-19th-century origins, but the human emotions portrayed are timeless. The music – wonderfully melodic, richly scored and atmospheric – is conducted by Edward Gardner.

Agrippina

New to The Royal Opera
Co-production with Bavarian State Opera, Munich, and Dutch National Opera

Music: George Frideric Handel
Libretto: Vincenzo Grimani

Generous philanthropic support from Mrs Aline Foriel-Destezet (Production Principal) and Charles Holloway

Agrippina is the ultimate political operator – outrageous and blatant in her pursuit of power. In the title role, Joyce DiDonato heads a specialist cast in Handel’s early operatic success, a calling card when he moved to London. The score boasts a succession of brilliant Baroque jewels: one after another come the bright, sparkling arias, here performed by a cast also including acclaimed British singers Iestyn Davies and Lucy Crowe and directed with characteristic invention by Barrie Kosky.

The Intelligence Park
New production, The Royal Opera
Co-production with Music Theatre Wales; in association with London Sinfonietta

Music: Gerald Barry
Libretto: Vincent Deane

Gerald Barry creates operas like no other – brilliant, surreal and often laugh-out-loud funny. Not seen in London since 1990, Barry’s first opera The Intelligence Park comes to the Linbury ahead of Alice’s Adventures Under Ground on the Main Stage later in the Season. The setting is Dublin in 1753, where a composer’s work on an opera is disrupted and intensified when he falls in love with the lead castrato, who at the same time elopes with the composer’s fiancée, causing fantasy and reality to collide. The music, scored for chamber orchestra and conducted here by Jessica Cottis, is startling in every aspect of its range, making extravagant virtuoso demands of the six performers.

Manon

The Royal Ballet

Generous philanthropic support from the Jean Sainsbury Royal Opera House Fund, Marina Hobson OBE, John and Susan Burns and Kenneth and Susan Green.

Choreography: Kenneth MacMillan
Music: Jules Massenet

To begin the new Royal Ballet Season, a wealth of talent from the whole Company is on stage for MacMillan’s modern classic. This interpretation pulls no punches as it follows the journey of the original good ‘bad’ girl of the title and her young lover through a world of 18th-century opulence and its dark underside. The detailed settings and rich characterizations have ensured that Manon has become an enduring favourite of the repertory of the Company and indeed the world. Grand, louche, heartrending – the temptations and torments of love, from depravity to ecstasy, propel a gripping, emotional and beautifully choreographed ballet.

Cross Currents/Monotones II/New Pam Tanowitz

The Royal Ballet
Merce Cunningham Centennial

The centenary of the birth of Merce Cunningham is an occasion to celebrate the extraordinary legacy of this pioneering American choreographer. He reshaped the relationship between body, movement and music, melding the classical and the innovative to explore the essence of human motion. In the first of two celebratory programmes, The Royal Ballet performs Cunningham’s Cross Currents – a trio first seen in London in 1964 – and Frederick Ashton’s Cunningham-indebted Monotones II. This short, intimate programme is completed with a new commissioned work from American choreographer Pam Tanowitz, whose modern approach from a classical base continues the fusions and explorations that Cunningham’s work exemplifies.

Dance Umbrella: The Future Bursts In

Part of Dance Umbrella 2019 and FranceDance UK

Two international companies present a second Linbury programme to mark the Merce Cunningham Centennial. Amala Dianor performs Somewhere in the Middle of Infinity, in which three dancers test borders and boundaries as hip hop, African and contemporary dance clash with creative force. CCN – Ballet de Lorraine performs two works. For Four Walls explores the fluid interactions between past and present, taking inspiration from a 1944 collaboration between Cunningham and composer John Cage. Cunningham’s Sounddance (1975) completes the programme with an ‘organized chaos’ and frenetic energy that challenges concepts of symmetry and conformity in the idea of ballet itself.

New to The Royal Opera

Co-production with Opéra national de Paris and Teatro Massimo, Palermo

Music: Gaetano Donizetti
Libretto: Giovanni Ruffini and Gaetano Donizetti

Generous philanthropic support from the Friends of Covent Garden
Royal Opera favourite Bryn Terfel heads the cast for this new production of Donizetti’s comedy of domestic drama across two generations. The witty story of a middle-aged man whose supposed young wife runs rings around him – with her own ulterior romantic purpose in mind – has long delighted and surprised audiences, not least as presented with the sparkle of its music and the virtuoso skill of its performers. Damiano Michieletto’s exhilarating production shows how contemporary the characters still are and how immediate and touching the story remains.

An encounter with Schumann’s Dichterliebe

New to The Royal Opera

C.I.C.T. – Théâtre des Bouffes du Nord co-commission and co-production with La Monnaie/De Munt, Brussels; Opéra de Lille; Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, Inc., New York; Opéra de Rouen Normandie; University Musical Society of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor; and Le Cercle des Partenaires des Bouffes du Nord

With the support of Lyrical Creation Fund (SACD)

Music: Robert Schumann and Bernard Focroulle
Text: Heinrich Heine and Martin Crimp
As the Middle East blazes with conflict, a young woman waits at a European border, hoping to cross over to Zauberland – a magic land of peace and security. But when she falls asleep, she dreams of the burnt-out city she has been forced to leave behind. The Royal Opera’s relationship with director Katie Mitchell and writer Martin Crimp (Written on Skin and Lessons in Love and Violence) moves to the Linbury Theatre with a new dramatic piece for soprano, piano and four actors. Crimp and composer Bernard Foccroulle have created 16 new songs that are performed alongside Robert Schumann and Heinrich Heine’s Dichterliebe, opening up a dialogue between the 19th century and today.

The Royal Ballet

Generous philanthropic support from The Royal Opera House Endowment Fund

Enigma Variations – Generous philanthropic support from Lindsay and Sarah Tomlinson

Conductor: Pavel Sorokin
Orchestra of the Royal Opera House

From The Royal Ballet’s classical origins in the works of Petipa, to the home-grown choreographers who put British ballet on the world stage, this mixed programme highlights the versatility of the Company. Petipa’s Raymonda Act III is Russian classical ballet summarized in one act, full of sparkle and precise technique, while Ashton’s Enigma Variations is quintessentially British in every way – from its score by Elgar and period designs by Julia Trevelyan Oman, to Ashton’s signature style, the essence of British ballet. Concerto, MacMillan’s fusion of classical technique with a contemporary mind, completes a programme that shows the breadth of the Company’s heritage.

Four young lovers, the search for truth... and the glittering, dangerous Queen of the Night. David McVicar’s production of Mozart’s fantasy-like opera is a wonderful combination of comedy and poignancy, striking imagery and utterly sublime music. The score has the immediate tunefulness of folksong alongside the heart-catching lyricism of operatic aria, with a wealth of ensembles from the profound to the celebratory, too. A young cast of rising stars combine in a revival that offers a theatrical treat packed with enjoyment for all ages.

The Kingdom of Back/Mamela.../The Shape of Sound

Northern Ballet

Northern Ballet demonstrates its range and skill on the Linbury Theatre stage in a fascinating mixed programme. The Kingdom of Back is Morgann Runacre-Temple’s funny, moving and intimate portrait of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart’s sister Nannerl, herself so talented yet forced into her brother’s shadow. Mlindi Kulashe’s choreographic debut work Mamela... (from his native Xhosa language’s word for ‘listen’) is haunting in its exploration of themes of imprisonment and escape. The programme is completed by Kenneth Tindall’s The Shape of Sound, a beautiful response to the emotions evoked by the changing seasons, mirrored in Max Richter’s re-composition of Vivaldi’s classic Le quattro stagioni (The Four Seasons).

Creative team

- Choreography: Morgann Runacre-Temple, Mlindi Kulashe, Kenneth Tindall

Little Red Riding Hood

Northern Ballet dancer Mariana Rodrigues creates a short new work on a classic fairytale, especially for children. Little Red Riding Hood is a kind and thoughtful little girl who loves her family. One day, on a visit to her grandmother, she meets a very hungry wolf in the forest who just wants something to eat. But is he really such a big, bad wolf? Join Little Red on her adventure as she makes friends and discovers the importance of kindness. Loved by audiences in the theatre and through a string of hugely successful CBeebies TV adaptations (including Three Little Pigs), this is a treat not to be missed.

The Sleeping Beauty

The Royal Ballet

Choreography: Marius Petipa
Music: Pyotr Il’yich Tchaikovsky
Orchestra of the Royal Opera House

Generous philanthropic support from Kenneth and Susan Green and The Royal Opera House Endowment Fund

Original production (2006) made possible by the Linbury Trust, Simon and Virginia Robertson and Marina Hobson OBE

This production of The Sleeping Beauty has been delighting audiences in Covent Garden since 1946. A classic of Russian ballet, it established The Royal Ballet both in its new home after World War II and as a world-class company. Sixty years later, in 2006, the original staging was revived, returning Oliver Messel’s wonderful designs and glittering costumes to the stage. Pyotr Il’yich Tchaikovsky’s enchanting score and Marius Petipa’s original choreography beautifully combine with sections created for The Royal Ballet by Frederick Ashton, Anthony Dowell and Christopher Wheeldon. This ballet is sure to cast its spell over anyone who sees it.

Death in Venice

New production, The Royal Opera
Co-production with Volksoper Wien

Music: Benjamin Britten
Libretto: Myfanwy Piper
Generous philanthropic support from Hamish and Sophie Forsyth, Charles Holloway, the Britten Syndicate and The Royal Opera House Endowment Fund

The unique resonance of Venice in 1913 is the setting for Britten’s intense and atmospheric opera about a burnt-out, middle-aged writer obsessed with youth while haunted by death. David McVicar’s major new production is the first of two Britten operas this Season, part of The Royal Opera’s ongoing Britten cycle, and features a strong contingent of British artists, headed by Mark Padmore as the troubled Aschenbach, with Gerald Finley in the multiple roles that persistently foreshadow mortality. This is a real ensemble piece, with many individualized roles, and dance integral to the story, not least in the form of the young man who is the focus of Aschenbach’s disturbing desire. Mark Elder conducts Britten’s final opera, which returns to The Royal Opera for the first time since 1992.

Les Beaux dormants

Le Ballet de l’Opéra national du Rhin, in collaboration with Cie Cas Public Growing up is inescapable. Le Ballet de l’Opéra national du Rhin performs Hélène Blackburn’s family ballet freely inspired by The Sleeping Beauty – not only a classic tale, but a reflection on one of the most important stages of life too. Les Beaux dormants (The Sleeping Beauties) explores all the changes – physical and emotional – that come with blossoming adulthood: easy for some, but a nightmare for others. With its new take on a familiar work, this is an immediately engaging ballet for everyone. Rediscover the sleeping beauty ready for awakening in the heart of each of us, whether child or adult.

Otello

The Royal Opera

Music: Giuseppe Verdi
Libretto: Arrigo Boito
Position of Music Director Maestro Antonio Pappano generously supported by Mrs Susan A. Olde OBE

Generous philanthropic support from Marina Hobson OBE, Spindrift Al Swaidi and The Royal Opera House Endowment Fund

Verdi’s Shakespeare-inspired penultimate opera charts the fall of an all-powerful leader and devoted husband from the radiance of power and love to the darkness of deluded jealousy. Keith Warner’s insightful production, here in its first revival at the Royal Opera House, highlights the conflict between innocence and evil at the heart of Shakespeare’s story. Verdi’s score is one of his finest, ranging from grand ceremonial scenes to episodes of exquisite intimacy. With supreme Verdi’s Gregory Kunde (Otello), Ermonela Jaho (his beloved Desdemona) and Carlos Álvarez (his nemesis Iago), conducted by Royal Opera Music Director Antonio Pappano, it’s hard to imagine a more thrilling operatic experience.

La traviata

The Royal Opera
Music: Giuseppe Verdi
Libretto: Francesco Maria Piave

Violetta – the ‘fallen woman’ of the title – is tested to extremes in one of the most famous of all operas. Yet it is her extraordinary strength in self-sacrifice that has engaged the hearts of audiences in this consistently popular opera. Verdi brought to this powerful story, based on real-life characters, music that soars, elates and stirs, and audiences have long been moved by it. The colour and detail of the Parisian world of its story – from the glamour of its society parties to the poverty of Violetta’s final hours – makes this a favourite among Royal Opera productions.

La bohème
The Royal Opera
Co-production with Teatro Real, Madrid, and Lyric Opera of Chicago

Generous philanthropic support from The Royal Opera House Endowment Fund

Music: Giacomo Puccini
Libretto: Giuseppe Giacosa and Luigi Illica

Puccini’s opera of young love in 19th-century Paris is packed with beautiful music, including lyrical arias, celebratory choruses for Act II’s evocation of Christmas Eve in the Latin Quarter and a poignant final scene over which the composer himself wept. Richard Jones’s character-led production perfectly captures La bohème’s mixture of comedy, romance and tragedy, with striking designs by Stewart Laing. The casts feature some of the greatest interpreters of Puccini’s bohemian lovers performing today and include former members of the Jette Parker Young Artists Programme.

The Royal Ballet

Choreography: John Cranko
Music: Kurt-Heinz Stolze after Pyotr Iľič Tchaikovsky

Generous philanthropic support from Mrs Aline Foriel-Destezet (Production Principal), Lindsay and Sarah Tomlinson and the Paul Ferguson Memorial Fund and the Friends of Covent Garden

The naivety of first love gives way to the regret of experience in this narrative ballet by British choreographer John Cranko. The atmosphere of Imperial Russia is brought to the stage through the gripping story from Pushkin’s classic verse-novel, a score drawn from across Tchaikovsky’s works and historically informed designs. Cranko’s detailed choreography peoples the countryside and city settings with finely drawn characters full of emotion. The Royal Ballet is at its dramatic finest in this heart-breaking story of two people whose paths are fated to cross but never to join.

Aisha and Abhaya

World premiere, Rambert

Co-production between The Royal Ballet and Rambert in association with BBC Films and Robin Saunders.
Generous philanthropic support from The Royal Opera House Endowment Fund

Aisha and Abhaya is a modern fairytale that combines stunning film with striking choreography, performed by Rambert, Britain’s foremost contemporary dance company. This co-production between The Royal Ballet, Rambert and BBC Films is a feast for the senses. Director Kibwe Tavares brings together the work of choreographer Sharon Eyal with music by Ori Lichtik and GAIKA. Beautifully lavish costumes contrast with the heartbreaking story of two sisters in a new world and their struggle to survive.

Alice’s Adventures Under Ground

New production, The Royal Opera

Co-production with Irish National Opera

Generous philanthropic support from Hamish and Sophie Forsyth, Charles Holloway, Gonzalo and Maria Garcia and the Contemporary Music Circle

Music and libretto: Gerald Barry

Fun, furious, frantic and utterly fantastic! The surreal world of Lewis Carroll’s Alice, both in Wonderland and Through the Looking Glass, is given an extra twist in Gerald Barry’s operatic treatment. At less than an hour for the whole opera, this short, sharp shot of mayhem is ideal as a family treat. Antony McDonald (of last Season’s Hansel and Gretel) directs and designs this new production – the first ever staging of this musically virtuoso opera – with more than a touch of the Victorian toy theatre. The Red Queen, the White Rabbit, the Mad Hatter: meet a kaleidoscope of colourful characters in this joyful, headlong rush into a world gone deliciously mad.

Susanna

New production, The Royal Opera

Co-production with London Handel Festival. Generously made possible by Oak Foundation.

Music: George Frideric Handel
Libretto: Anonymous, based on Apocrypha, The History of Susanna
Performed by: Jette Parker Young Artists

A virtuous woman wrongly accused by two men with ulterior motives provides the dramatic core of Handel’s oratorio Susanna. It was written for Covent Garden and had its premiere on the site in 1749 but hasn’t been performed here since. Now it receives a staging in the Linbury Theatre led by members of the Jette Parker Young Artists.
Artists Programme. The production is part of our Handel series and follows on from Solomon and Berenice. The beautiful score is full of Handel’s subtle musical dramatizations, from arias to powerful choruses. This is a wonderful opportunity to rediscover the past through a work of Covent Garden heritage and to see talented rising artists who will become the stars of the future.

Position of Music Director Maestro Antonio Pappano generously supported by Mrs Susan A. Olde OBE

Generous philanthropic support from Marina Hobson OBE, Martin and Jane Houston, Mary Ellen Johnson and Richard Karl Goeltz and the Maestro’s Circle

Beethoven’s only opera is a masterpiece, an uplifting story of risk and triumph. In this new production, conducted by Antonio Pappano, Jonas Kaufmann plays the political prisoner Florestan, and Lise Davidsen his wife Leonore (disguised as ‘Fidelio’) who daringly sets out to rescue him. Set in strong counterpoint are the ingredients of domestic intrigue, determined love and the cruelty of an oppressive regime. The music is transcendent throughout and includes the famous Act I Quartet, the Prisoners’ Chorus and Florestan’s impassioned Act II cry in the darkness and vision of hope. Tobias Kratzer’s new staging brings together the dark reality of the French Revolutionary ‘Terror’ and our own time to illuminate Fidelio’s inspiring message of shared humanity.

Liam Scarlett’s role as Artist in Residence is generously supported by Ricki Gail and Robert Conway
Generous philanthropic support from Lindsay and Sarah Tomlinson, John and Susan Burns, Kenneth and Susan Green, Doug and Ceri King, the Fonteyn Circle and The Royal Opera House Endowment Fund

Choreography: Liam Scarlett after Marius Petipa and Lev Ivanov
Music: Pyotr Il'yich Tchaikovsky

Liam Scarlett’s glorious production of Swan Lake, new in 2018, returns for its first revival. While remaining faithful to the Marius Petipa/Lev Ivanov text, Scarlett’s additional choreography and John Macfarlane’s magnificent designs breathe new life into what is arguably the best-known and most-loved classical ballet. The entire Company shines in this eternal tale of doomed love, a masterpiece refreshed for a new generation. Tchaikovsky’s first score for ballet soars with its symphonic sweep and combines perfectly with exquisite choreography, from the grand pas de deux of Prince Siegfried and Odile to the swans at the lakeside. An intoxicating mix of spectacle and intimate passion, the overall effect is irresistible.

Jenůfa

New production, The Royal Opera

Generous philanthropic support from Hamish and Sophie Forsyth

Music and libretto: Leoš Janáček

The third in The Royal Opera’s stagings of Janáček, Jenůfa explores the lives of two courageous women struggling for fulfilment in a small rural community. Janáček movingly captures Jenůfa’s progression from hope to despair to eventual radiant happiness, while her stepmother, the Kostelnička, is one of opera’s most complex and sympathetic maternal figures. Award-winning director Claus Guth stages the first production of Jenůfa at Covent Garden since 2001. Former Music Director of Glyndebourne Vladimir Jurowski conducts a stunning score infused with the folk music of Janáček’s native Moravia, with rising star Asmik Grigorian as Jenůfa and Karita Mattila as the Kostelnička.

A contemporary programme opens with Wayne McGregor’s Live Fire Exercise. John Gerrard’s slow-motion projections of explosions and music by Michael Tippett combine with choreography that requires militaristic discipline, pushing the dancers’ bodies to their limits in a series of hyper-extended ensembles and solos. Following is Wheeldon’s abstract Corybantic Games from 2018, which features an award-winning collaboration with leading fashion designer Erdem Moralioglu and is set to Leonard Bernstein’s Serenade after Plato’s ‘Symposium’. The dynamic choreography conjures up a world of antiquity that brings the pure athleticism of the dancers to the fore. A third ballet, yet to be announced, completes this mixed programme.

Two opera classics are drawn together in this wonderfully observed re-creation of life in a South Italian village as a travelling theatre visits and emotions erupt. The award-winning production by Damiano Michieletto presents vividly the fast-moving, shocking events brought about by secret love and uncontrollable jealousy. The music is full of Italianate melody in the great choruses that bring the villagers together in celebration and revelry, alongside the solo arias and tense confrontations that provoke violence and tragedy. With thrilling singing and intense drama, ‘Cav and Pag’ distils into one wonderful night out, demonstrating the enduring appeal of Italian opera in its most familiar form.

Tristan und Isolde
The Royal Opera
Co-production with Houston Grand Opera

Music and libretto: Richard Wagner

Generous philanthropic support from the Tristan und Isolde Production Syndicate and the Wagner Circle

Christof Loy’s Olivier Award-winning production of Wagner’s most sensual opera returns for its second revival, with sought-after Wagnerians Michael Weinius and Ricarda Merbeth in their Royal Opera debuts as opera’s most famous lovers. Loy uses a simple set divided by a curtain to reflect Tristan and Isolde’s longing to escape from the prosaic everyday world – here depicted as an elegant wedding feast – into an inner world of transcendent love. Semyon Bychkov, acclaimed for his interpretations of Lohengrin and Tannhäuser with The Royal Opera, conducts Wagner’s intense and endlessly beautiful score.

Music co-commission with Los Angeles Philharmonic

Generous philanthropic support from John and Susan Burns and the John S Cohen Foundation.

Design role generously supported by The Estate of Howard Hodgkin

Resident Choreographer Wayne McGregor generously supported by Linda and Philip Harley

Dante’s Divine Comedy is an epic journey through the afterlife: it encompasses the horrifying drama of Inferno and its damned, the lyrical mysticism of pilgrims on mount Purgatorio and the dazzling spheres of Paradiso with their endless configurations of light. The poem was inspired by the agony of Dante’s own exile and traces his path from crisis to revelation guided by his literary hero Virgil and his lost love Beatrice. In this new work, The Royal Ballet’s trailblazing Resident Choreographer Wayne McGregor collaborates with an award-winning team – contemporary composer Thomas Adès, artist Tacita Dean, lighting designer Lucy Carter and dramaturg Uzma Hameed – to bring us closer to Dante and his extraordinary vision.

Strauss’s thrilling and audacious adaptation of Greek tragedy receives a new staging by the award-winning Christof Loy. This uncompromising opera, about a daughter intent on bloody revenge and a mother driven to madness, has provoked critics to lively debate and both shocked and excited audiences since its 1909 premiere. Antonio Pappano conducts music that combines violence with moments of exquisite tenderness in his first Strauss interpretation for The Royal Opera since 2002. The outstanding cast includes Nina Stemme (Brünnhilde in last Season’s Der Ring des Nibelungen) in the title role, and Karita Mattila in her role debut as the haunted queen Klytämnestra.

The Turn of the Screw
New production, The Royal Opera
Music: Benjamin Britten
Libretto: Myfanwy Piper

The intimate Linbury Theatre provides the ideal space for Henry James’s tense, classic ghost story, turned by Benjamin Britten into a major work of 20th-century opera. The story follows the malign influence of two ghosts on two children, Flora and Miles, whose governess is unable to prevent a final and deadly conclusion. Claustrophobic, psychologically disturbing and even uncomfortably voyeuristic, this new production follows Billy Budd and Death in Venice in the Britten cycle of works from The Royal Opera. It has a strong young British focus under conductor Finnegan Downie Dear and Natalie Abrahami, who collaborates with Michael Levine on direction and design.

A programme of three modern works created for The Royal Ballet begins with Tombeaux, David Bintley’s tribute to Frederick Ashton and British ballet tradition. This important work was created as Bintley’s last work for the Company before he became Artistic Director of Birmingham Royal Ballet, and The Royal Ballet revives it in appreciation as he steps down from BRB. Alexei Ratmansky’s fluid and Romantic-inspired ballet from 2013 is reimagined as Preludes with solo piano music by Chopin. As a contrasting finale, Liam Scarlett’s Symphonic Dances to Rachmaninoff’s music presents the shifting moods dictated by its central ballerina against a backdrop of dramatic light and colour.

Lucia di Lammermoor
The Royal Opera
Co-production with Greek National Opera

Music: Gaetano Donizetti
Libretto: Salvadore Cammarano

Generous philanthropic support from Lord and Lady Laidlaw

In Donizetti’s operatic reworking of Walter Scott’s popular novel The Bride of Lammermoor, the composer creates one of his most memorable heroines, with music that requires virtuoso performance – most famously, Lucia’s haunted Act III monologue. Katie Mitchell’s staging brings together elements of the Gothic thriller and social critique of its early 19th-century setting, with Lucia firmly centre stage. This is a penetrating depiction of an intelligent and resourceful woman cornered by the men around her and driven to a blood-soaked final act. Rising star Giacomo Sagripanti makes his Royal Opera debut conducting two stunning young casts, including Nadine Sierra and Venera Gimadieva as Lucia.

The clash of Eastern and Western cultures proves the downfall of a young geisha in one of the most popular of all Italian operas, revived here under conductor Antonio Pappano and with a star double cast, including Ermonela Jaho, Lianna Haroutounian, Marcelo Puente, Gianluca Terranova and Gerald Finley. This beautiful Royal Opera production has striking imagery throughout – inspired by 19th-century European views of the Orient – to complement the alluring score. Puccini’s music evokes the shifting perspectives within the Japanese setting: sensual and seductive at the outset, yet brutal and heartbreaking by the end.

Don Carlo

The Royal Opera

Music: Giuseppe Verdi
Libretto: Joseph Méry and Camille du Locle

Supported by Rolex

Verdi’s grand opera captures the state splendour and religious repression of Renaissance Spain. It returns to The Royal Opera in Nicholas Hytner’s atmospheric production with spectacular sets and lavish costumes by Bob Crowley. The central characters are among Verdi’s most intriguing: crucially, the impetuous Carlos is torn between political ambition and his passion for his stepmother Elizabeth of Valois, while his conflicted father Philip II is urged by the Grand Inquisitor to make a terrible sacrifice for the Church. Verdi’s music is always immediate and inventive, from rousing choruses to intimate arias and duets, here conducted by Richard Farnes, former Music Director for Opera North.

Generous philanthropic support from Marina Hobson OBE and the Sitzprobe Circle

Antonio Pappano conducts an outstanding cast in one of the best-loved and most-performed operas in the repertory: Puccini’s thrilling Tosca. From the demonic chords that open the opera to the violent twist of its shock ending, the tension never lets up. Jonathan Kent’s production, with Paul Brown’s stunning designs, perfectly evokes the troubled atmosphere of Rome in 1800. The story’s combination of Tosca’s sensuality and religious sincerity, the idealism of her lover, and the Chief of Police who is the dark nemesis of both, never fails to thrill.

She Described it to Death
The Royal Opera

Co-commission between Guildhall School of Music & Drama and The Royal Opera
Composer Matt Rogers’s new opera takes its inspiration from a future hindered by over-population, to which a sci-fi angle brings an intriguing solution, and new problems of its own. This chamber piece follows Rogers’s previous success The Virtues of Things (2015) and comes to the Linbury Theatre as the third Doctoral Composer-in-Residence collaboration between The Royal Opera and the Guildhall School of Music & Drama. She Described It to Death, a major new commission, is an intriguing opportunity to get up close to the contemporary – and possibly even the future.

Jette Parker Young Artists Summer Performance

Generously made possible by Oak Foundation

The Jette Parker Young Artists Programme continues to flourish, attracting and nurturing exceptional talent from around the world. Singers, directors, conductors and répétiteurs at the start of their careers perfect their art with coaching from some of the most highly regarded teachers and performers in opera and ballet. The JPYA Link Artist scheme offers coaching and access opportunities to a broader range of artists, with a particular focus on those currently under-represented in the Company’s talent pool. The programme works in collaboration with other organizations to promote the diversification of talent across the sector and leads initiatives to support the training of women conductors in partnership with the Royal Philharmonic Society and the National Opera Studio.

Catch tomorrow’s stars in the making in this Season’s Meet the Young Artists Week, and on our stages throughout the Season, including in the Programme’s annual chamber opera – this year, Handel’s Susanna – in lunchtime recitals at the Royal Opera House and elsewhere, and in their end-of-Season Summer Performance.

About The Royal Opera
The Royal Opera, under the artistic direction of Antonio Pappano, Music Director, and Oliver Mears, Director of Opera, is one of the world’s leading opera companies. Based in the iconic Covent Garden theatre, it is renowned both for its outstanding performances of traditional opera and for commissioning new works by today’s leading opera composers, such as Harrison Birtwistle, Mark-Anthony Turnage and Thomas Adès.

About The Royal Ballet
Under the directorship of Kevin O’Hare, The Royal Ballet unites tradition and innovation in world-class performances, and is a driving force in the development of ballet as an art form. Based at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, it brings together today’s most dynamic and versatile dancers with a world-class orchestra and leading choreographers, composers, conductors, directors and creative teams to share awe-inspiring theatrical experiences with diverse audiences worldwide.

The Company’s extensive repertory embraces 19th-century classics, the singular legacy of works by Founder Choreographer Frederick Ashton and Principal Choreographer Kenneth MacMillan and the compelling new canon of work including pieces by Resident Choreographer Wayne McGregor, Artistic Associate Christopher Wheeldon and Artist in Residence Liam Scarlett.

About The Royal Opera House
The Royal Opera House presents more than 400 performances at the iconic Covent Garden theatre in London, each year and reaches an audience of more than 700,000. Beyond that people enjoyed our work across the globe through our ROH Cinema Season, World Ballet Day, Royal Opera House YouTube Channel (which has more than 500,000 subscribers), BP Big Screens and other online and interactive projects. The Royal Opera House also plays a leading role through our Learning and Participation Department, community engagement, skills development, professional training and cultural regeneration in the UK.

Royal Opera House Access
